$10,000 donated to prevent violence against women

CMC Markets teams up with NSW Waratahs to raise funds and awareness for White Ribbon

Sydney, 09 May 2016: CMC Markets, official partner of the NSW Waratahs, is proud to announce a donation of $10,000 to White Ribbon following Saturday’s Super Rugby match between the NSW Waratahs and the Cheetahs, which doubled as the Waratahs’ annual Ladies Day.

CMC Markets committed to donating $1,000 for every try the NSW Waratahs scored, with the total money raised going to White Ribbon, as Australia’s only national, male led campaign to end men’s violence against women.

CMC Markets’ pledge created further incentive for the Tahs to score in Saturday’s match. The game was the NSW Waratahs’ third win in a row, resulting in a 21 points to six victory over the Cheetahs. Bernard Foley and NSW Waratahs winger, Reece Robinson both scored a try each, resulting in a $2,000 donation. A further 11 points came off the boot of Bernard Foley, with three penalties and one conversion.

In addition to the $2,000 try money, CMC Markets committed a further $8,000 to White Ribbon.

As the match day charity on Saturday, White Ribbon will therefore receive a total of $10,000 from CMC Markets. The money will assist their campaign to aid awareness and education of violence against women, through programs with youth, schools and workplaces across the broader community.

Matthew Lewis, head of CMC Markets Asia Pacific said: “As a company in a male dominated industry, we recognise the importance of playing a leadership role in the prevention of men’s violence against women. Supporting White Ribbon through our sponsorship of the NSW Waratahs is the perfect alignment, helping to raise awareness of the issue of violence against women in the broader community.

“We’re honoured to donate $10,000 to White Ribbon, helping to fund important preventative education programs that are the bedrock of White Ribbon’s charitable work. The boys played a great game on Saturday night. To applaud their efforts and support the fantastic work of White Ribbon, we have increased our donation by $8,000 for this worthy cause.”

“The NSW Waratahs are proud to have one of our major sponsors, CMC Markets, join us in supporting our match day charity, White Ribbon,” Waratahs and NSW Rugby CEO, Andrew Hore said.

“CMC’s donation has provided significant support for a very important campaign and together reinforces our respect for women in the game, both on and off the field.”

CMC Markets is in its third year of corporate sponsorship for NSW Waratahs, and is a proud supporter of domestic violence, previously supporting Bay City Care.
